light of the Party's basic line. This enabled the masses to see things clearly and exposed the enemy. The two different types of contradictions which previously caused confusion were now clearly distinguished. . .

The experience of the Kueite County Party Committee in implementing the Party's basic line through a gradual process of change from unconsciousness to consciousness shows that, in the course of struggle, it is necessary to study well the theory of the dictatorship of the proletariat and deepen our knowledge of the Party's basic line so as to be able to distinguish correctly the two different types of contradictions, strike steady, accurate and relentless blows at the small handful of bad elements, and strongly criticize capitalist tendencies. By so doing we will constantly raise the consciousness of the cadres and masses of fulfilling the tasks of the dictatorship of the proletariat in the basic-level units.

Kirin Meeting Studies a Store's Struggle against Bourgeois Ideas

Changchun, Kirin provincial service 1130 gmt 7 Mar 75

Precis, with quotations, of report published in the 6th March 'Kirin Daily'

"The Kirin Provincial Revolutionary Committee recently held an on-the spot meeting in Lishu County to learn from and popularize the experience of Lishu County's worker-peasant soldier store. Attending the meeting were responsible persons of the revolutionary committees and finance and trade departments of the various municipalities, prefectures, chous, leagues, counties (?townships) and banners, representatives from a number of basic level units, and responsible comrades of provincial-level finance and trade departments. In all, more than 450 persons attended the meeting. Wang Huai hsiang, First Secretary of the Provincial CCP Committee, spoke at the meeting. Chang Shih-ying delivered a report on behalf of the Provincial Revolutionary Committee. The comrades attending the meeting conscientiously studied Chairman Mao's important instruction on the question of theory, and selected quotations from Marx, Engels and Lenin on the dictatorship of the proletariat."

The comrades attending the meeting listened to a report by (Li Chin jung), Party branch secretary of the worker-peasant-soldier store, on its experience in persisting in the Party's basic line and in running the socialist store well. They also discussed the question of how to make progress on the finance and trade front. The comrades unanimously maintained that in order to persist in the Party's basic line and carry out the mission of consolidating the dictatorship of the proletariat through to the basic-level units, the finance and trade departments must solve the following problems

(1) It is necessary firmly to grasp class struggle in the economic field and consolidate the socialist positions on the finance and trade front. Lenin pointed out that on the finance and trade front, the class enemy has frequently employed corruption, embezzlement, speculation and other tricks in a vain attempt to disrupt the socialist economy and undermine the socialist system. "Leaders of the finance and trade departments must seriously study the theory of the dictatorship of the proletariat, carry out investigations of, and study new trends in, the class struggle, master the laws governing class struggle, and take the initiative in attacking and struggling against all capitalist forces and newly emerging bourgeois elements. In waging class struggle, it is necessary to take a clear-cut stand. Whatever the enemy's tactics may be, we must have the courage to criticize and wage a struggle. We must never be soft hearted or show mercy. It is necessary constantly to carry out education among the staff and workers in opposing the corrosion by bourgeois ideas and promote revolutionary mass criticism of the theory of 'the dying out of class struggle', the theory of 'human nature' of the landlord and bourgeois class, and capitalism and the bourgeoisie, thus raising the consciousness of the staff and workers towards class struggle, as well as raising their ability to resist the corrosion of bourgeois ideas." All leaders must support and protect those activists who dare to struggle against class enemies and acts of corruption and embezzlement, and resolutely hit hard at the enemy's verdict-reversing activities.

(2) It is necessary continuously to criticize capitalist ideas on management, and persist in the socialist orientation in running finance and trade. "The finance and trade departments must take as their model the Party branch of the worker-peasant-soldier store, firmly bear in mind the Party's basic line, and put the basic line in command of all store operations."

(3) It is necessary to struggle constantly against corrosion by bourgeois ideas and build a revolutionized finance and trade contingent. "It is necessary to educate the cadres and masses to break completely with the traditional ownership system and with
